ABOUT ME

Curiosity has been my greatest teacher. Growing up in a world with limited access to formal education, I turned challenges into motivation and built my own path through independent study. Today, I bring not only technical skills in languages, design, and digital tools, but also resilience, adaptability, and a deep hunger for learning. I don't just seek opportunities — I create them.

HOBBIES AND INTERESTS

Language learning (English, German, Dutch)

I enjoy learning new languages to expand my communication skills and explore different cultures.

Graphic design and digital art

I create digital designs and visual content using tools like Photoshop and Canva, combining creativity with technical skills.

Coaching and personal development

I am passionate about coaching, goal-setting, and helping others improve their performance through active listening and feedback.

Reading books on leadership and psychology

I regularly read books on leadership, motivation, and psychology to deepen my understanding of human behavior and effective leadership.

Volunteering and teaching languages to children

I volunteer to teach language skills to children, helping them build confidence and open new opportunities for their future.

Exploring different cultures and international education systems

I am fascinated by cultural diversity and enjoy learning about global education models and international student experiences.
